A Word From Pastor Carl

QUAKE/ZONE FAREWELL

I give thanks that the youth who attended the Minneapolis Quake/Zone at the beginning of April experienced the opportunity to hear one of the Captive Free bands for a final time. As some of you have already heard, Youth Encounter will cease operations after the 2016 Quake/Zone season. (Continued on Page 3)

HLCW MEETING

The HLCW meeting, to be held April 12th at 10:00, will feature Tricia Mattson. Tricia is an RN at Essentia. She and another nurse friend, Julie Zimmerman, have gone to Haiti several times since the earthquake. They go up high in the mountains and stay in a tent giving out medicines, caps, and sunglasses. They pack these items in little suitcases with wheels, which are later given to the Haitian mothers to be used for baby buggies.

After Tricia's presentation, there will be a time for open conversation. We will have a brief business meeting before adjourning.

Everyone is welcome and if you have gently used caps and sunglasses to give, please bring them. The last time we gave 70 caps and about 50 sunglasses.

There will not be a Bible Study on the 12th but in May we will do two Bible Study lessons.

There are a number of reasons for the cessation of this ministry. The diminishing effect of having less people travelling meant that in the last number of years, there were less young people being exposed and personally acquainted with other team members and so the circle became smaller each year. This can happen only so many times before the circle become invisible.

There had been a precipitous decline in the last few years in the number of talented young adults who were interested in committing a year to travel on a team. This was a rather sharp change from even three years ago when there were something like six or seven teams. In years previous to this, there were even more teams including some who travelled internationally.

Financial pressures were a significant part of Youth Encounter's closure. But the finances were really symptoms of the precipitating problem of being unable to recruit the staff to cover the bases.

All of this change has been rather quick in the big picture and has hit a little close to home. My dad's good friend, Pastor Larry Johnson was the President of Youth Encounter for forty-some years before his recent retirement. This past year, a new executive was hired named Tom O'Neill who attempted to turn around the situation. Mr. O'Neill had a background as the director of a Missouri Synod Bible camp and corporate experience, most recently working for Thrivent Financial. With a new leader, the organization developed a new initiative with a greater focus on service projects. But there was not time enough time to chart a new course before the waves came crashing.

The cracks began to really show in the fall when Youth Encounter announced that it was not going to commission teams and instead wait until January for the Quake/Zone season and for Vacation Bible School in the summer. I also know that late last year, Youth Encounter requested that the LCMC Board of Trustees provide a loan which was denied. There also was exploration for the possibility of teaming up with another youth ministry but there is no one else out there to partner with that facilitates a similar kind of thing. And so the decision was made to simply cease operations.

I am sad because I personally witnessed what a great ministry Youth Encounter was. While I always enjoyed the Quake/Zones, the congregational visitations were the events of which I thought most highly. These young folks were people of Christian commitment, personable, musically talented and good public speakers and often eager Bible study leaders and participants. There was always a freshness and vitality that each group brought locally year after year. I regret the lost leadership opportunity for the church to not have this venue for developing and training young people for their future congregations. Thanks be to God for the sake of the Gospel because of the ministry of Youth Encounter.

WHERE ARE THEY NOW?

Featuring Trenton Bailey

Trenton completed two years at Hibbing Community College intending to become a mechanical engineer. It may have been a “divine intervention” that gave him a different opportunity for his future. When he was 19 years old, his girlfriend’s stepdad broke his thumb and needed some help driving trucks. Trenton became extra busy as he rode with him 4 days per week and in-between time went to classes at Hibbing and also took online classes. He was able to get his Class A license at age 19 and since that time has logged over 550,000 miles in his trucking career.

Trenton is the third generation of his family working in the trucking industry. His specialty is hauling heavy, oversized equipment such as cranes, loaders, dozers, graders and railroad equipment. There was no specific training for this but because of Trenton’s family background, he learned to look closely at any hauling situation before making the first move. He rode with his dad, Ron, on a low-boy and after 3-4 days, his dad decided he was ready to be on his own. He knows how to run most equipment and has been doing the heavy hauls for two years. His life experience working with his family is serving him well.

Besides growing up around trucks and specialized equipment, Trenton’s cousins own the Kivi Brothers Trucking business in Duluth. Trenton is employed by them as well as being his own independent trucker and working for Alan Hill Trucking. Now at age 24, Trenton owns three trucks – his favorite being his 2013 Peterbilt Model 389 – and anticipates being back as an over-the-road hauler this spring. His over-the-road travels will take him across the lower 48 states plus Canada and Alaska. His ultimate goal is to own his own trucking business.

Trenton’s heaviest haul was bringing a crane from Pittsburgh to the new Viking Stadium in Minneapolis. The crane filled forty-two (42) semi loads and Trenton hauled the track for it. The track weight 103,000 pounds. State permits are required for specialized hauling, routing is done by the States so the drivers will know the height of any overpasses or bridges that they might encounter, where power lines are, as well as any weight restrictions on the roads or bridges. Minnesota plans a 6” buffer zone to help prevent accidents. For any bridge or overpass that is 15’3”, a route survey is needed before permits are issued. All of these details can take up to one month to figure out before a haul can be done. Locally, the most worrisome problem is the railroad overpass on Highway 2 near Saginaw. The overpass is posted at 13’9” but the buffer is only 5”.

There’s not much down-time in Trenton’s life but when there is, he enjoys working on vintage snowmobiles, hanging out with his friends and brother and is looking forward to his September wedding to Keri Pastika. They will be married in Floodwood.

Trenton’s career is interesting. It’s taken him from one end of the country to the other and beyond. He is knowledgeable about his vocation and is proud to continue his family’s tradition in the trucking industry. We ask God to bless Trenton and keep him safe in his travels. He is providing a valuable service and we honor his commitment to it. We will keep Trenton, Keri and their families in our prayers for their future and for their trucking enterprise.
